Ancient and Real Communion: Part 1

Some of you have noticed that when I lead Communion, it may seem a little more formal than what we have observed in the past. Some have even expressed that it “seems too Catholic.” Because of this feedback, I would like to take the next few newsletter articles to help explain our Methodist understanding of the Communion. I would like to do this in order to assure and teach that, in our service, I am not borrowing from another tradition, but I am actually leading our church into our deeply rooted Methodist heritage.

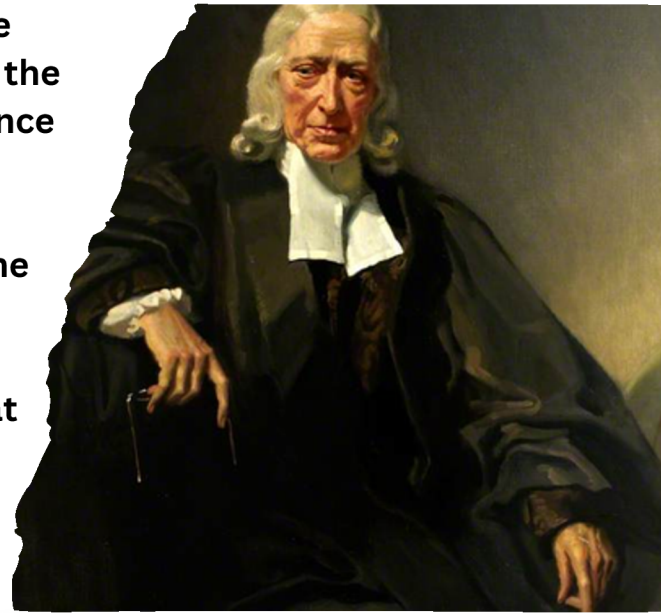

With this in mind, I think it is appropriate to first begin with the origins of the Communion service. Of course Methodist Communion begins with Jesus, in the Upper Room on the night of the last supper, breaking bread and sharing the cup with His disciples, saying, “Do this in remembrance of me.” From that night on, the Church has gathered around this meal and done this in remembrance of Jesus. However, the Church throughout the ages has observed this meal as more than just a remembrance or just a symbol, but a place where Christ Himself is believed to be truly present with those who partake in the meal. Also, over the centuries, the meal became ordered in the church’s liturgy. In England, after the Reformation, much of the ancient order and liturgy was preserved through what was known as the Book of Common Prayer, first published in 1549.

This book kept the rhythm of confession, thanksgiving, scripture, the words of institution, and the sharing of bread and wine—patterns that had been part of Christian worship since the early centuries and which closely paralleled the order of the Catholic Mass. Therefore, although the Anglican Church had broken from Rome politically, it remained in many ways liturgically and sacramentally connected to its Catholic roots, and this came through in the similarities in its Communion service. John Wesley the founder of Methodism, as a lifelong Anglican priest, adopted these same forms and traditions for the Methodist movement, which gives our Communion service a resemblance to our ancient past.

Even though Methodist Communion may look similar to the Catholic Mass, the theology behind it is different. In Catholic teaching, the substance of bread and wine change mysteriously into the actual Body and Blood of Christ, although the appearance stays the same—a doctrine called transubstantiation.

Wesley, as a reformer, didn't adopt this view. Instead, he taught that the entire Communion meal is a means of grace—a sacred way God gives His people forgiveness, strength, and fellowship with Christ. He did believe that Christ was truly present in the meal, not by changing the elements themselves, but in a real, spiritual, and mysterious way that draws believers into communion with Jesus. And that conviction in the "Real Presence" of Jesus hasn't changed for us Methodists. The 2024 Global Methodist Book of Doctrines and Discipline affirms:

"Those who rightly, worthily and in faith eat the broken bread and drink the blessed cup partake of the body and blood of Christ in a spiritual manner until He comes." So when we celebrate Communion with traditional liturgy and order, we are stepping into the same pattern of worship that has fed believers for centuries—a table both ancient in its history and alive with the Real Presence of Christ.

Glory be to the Lord our God, Jesus the Christ.

New Flags for Sanctuary

The United States and Christian flags located in the altar area of the sanctuary were recently replaced. These new flags replace flags purchased 30 years ago. Although always well maintained and routinely cleaned, the old flags were fading, losing their vibrancy and appearing dull, which is a sign that the material was deteriorating.

We wish to thank the members of the congregation who contributed to the purchase of the new flags. We appreciate their generosity.

COOKIE DONATIONS NEEDED

As you know, New Brighton Methodist Church is actively involved in the 12-Loaves Soup Kitchen, located right here in New Brighton. The soup kitchen provides free lunches Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday every week. We have a group of faithful volunteers who help serve one day a month and NBMC monetarily supports this critical mission.

12 Loaves is always in need of deserts throughout the year, specifically COOKIES. And who doesn't love a good cookie, right? They welcome donations of the single serving size, pre-packaged cookies (2 large cookies to a bag or the bags of bite-size cookies). But they also welcome home-baked cookies which are individually wrapped or bagged, 2 cookies per serving.

So over the coming months, if you find yourself shopping on Amazon or at Costco/Sam's Club or you're heading back to your kitchen to bake now that the weather is turning cool, think about a cookie donation for the soup kitchen. Your donations can be placed in the church kitchen (properly labeled "SOUP KITCHEN". If they are home baked cookies, please give someone in the church office a heads up when dropping them off so we can make sure they are delivered while they are nice and fresh.

From the Trustees

The Trustees continue their work as good stewards of our gifts and properties. Now that the sanctuary painting project is behind us as a result of your generous support, the Trustees have been focusing on general maintenance.

There is always something to be done on older structures. The office suite's 30 year old HVAC system had to be replaced and several of our AC wall units had to be either recharged or repaired. The dirty masonry all around the outside of our building was cleaned and bids are being sought for some repointing and repair work on the same. Lighting continues to be updated to LED bulbs and all carpets were cleaned, including the sanctuary. Ideas are being considered on how to make better use of our parking lot and make it more accessible. Just a quick reminder that the 4 or 5 spots along 6th Ave. side of the Magistrate's office are NOT to be used on any day, including Sunday. Plumbing and roofing issues are being addressed at the parsonage and are in process. Through your ongoing generosity and support we are able to keep our facilities in top notch condition. We truly appreciate and are blessed by your support.

Thank you,
Tom Hallman

Finance Committee:

News from the Finance Committee

The budgeting for 2026 has begun. The next Finance meeting is scheduled for Monday, October 20 at 7PM in the Fellowship Hall. If any committee needs a change in its budget from last year, please let Kim Inman know ASAP.

The interest funds that we receive from the UM Foundation has gone down slightly this year. However, even with the difference this money helps us to pay our expenses. NBMC receives about 4% interest on the monies we have invested at the Foundation.

Envelope giving is up about .085% compared to last year. Thank you for being generous and faithful givers/tithers!

In a world where family structures are evolving, the Church has a powerful opportunity to offer support, healing, and purpose. That's why this fall, we're launching Blended Family Support & Encouragement Classes right here at the church — to equip, encourage, and empower every kind of family walking this path.

Classes Begin Sept. 10th at 6pm

Join us in person on the 2nd Wednesday of each month at 6PM, with a follow-up Zoom session two weeks later. Through real talk, biblical truth, and practical tools, we'll walk this journey together — because blending isn't easy, but it is possible with grace.

Administrative Council:

Visioning a 5 year plan!

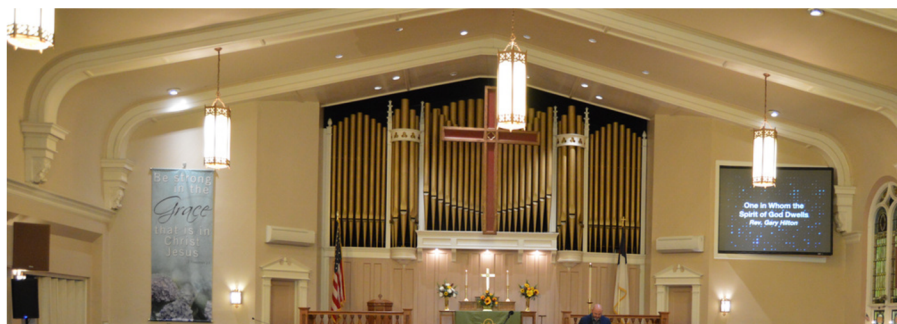

Over the next few months the Administrative Council will be meeting to work on a "5-year Plan" for our church. All Adm. Council meetings are open to all. It is a time to meet with your elected leadership and "brainstorm" about the direction you would like our church to go regarding:

- 1) Ministry/Worship,
- 2) Mission/Outreach,
- 3) Education/Study,
- 4) programming/activities,
- 5) staffing/personnel, etc.

It is a time to question, to suggest, to report, to dream! The first meeting was held on Tuesday, August 19th with good attendance and a good start. Please watch your Sunday bulletin for the date and time of each future meeting. The Council will decide when they want to hold the next session at the conclusion of each meeting. It is our hope to conclude this process by Lent of 2026.

Thank you,
Tom Hallman
Administrative Council Chair

Staff Parish Relations Committee:

The Staff Parish Relations Committee (SPRC) is currently working on developing an employee handbook for New Brighton Methodist Church (NBMC). The target date to have a handbook in place is second quarter of 2026. Some of the reasons why it's important to establish an employee handbook are:

- Helps to stay compliant with federal and local laws
- Shapes and maintains workplace culture by explicitly stating the church's values and mission
- Helps ensure key church policies are clearly and consistently communicated

Starting this year, NBMC will be implementing annual staff performance evaluations that will be completed in September/October each year. Evaluations provide a structured framework for assessing and managing employee contributions, development, and overall effectiveness.
